

Farming Opportunity in Berlin, WI

Farmer/Landowner Peter Johnson in Berlin WI is looking for a lessee/farmhand to slowly transition his land and operation to. Peter currently has 23 cows, 19 yearlings, and 15 calves along with heritage hogs including 8 sows, 2 boars and 17 piglets and roughly 400 acres of land. Ideally he is looking for someone who has farming experience that is wanting to grow their operation alongside his and uses regenerative ag practices, in particular rotational grazing.

A little background on the land. 7 years ago it was severely depleted cropland and using intensive managed rotational grazing (moving cattle 2 to 3 times in one day) he has converted portions of the land to lush beautiful pasture. In total there is roughly 400 acres of land with a mixture of pasture, forest, hay ground, cover crops and wildlife food plots. In addition, the original farmhouse is available for the lessee to live in, in exchange for reduced rent for work. The farmhouse is being completely renovated inside as we speak! By the farm house there are several fruit trees and grapevines and a chicken coop, truly a homesteader's dream.
